

Death's Prey: Samia Akhtar

A Note From Samia Akhtar

These art pieces were inspired by “Memento Mori.” It will depict the existential crisis all humans face when they acknowledge that one day we will all die. This art piece will be made in an effort to remind everyone that our time on Earth is only temporary. Each piece represents a stage in life where at first, death is irrelevant but then within minutes, everything changes and death is at the forefront of your existence. Despite the fact that acknowledging that death is inevitable will cause anxiety, despair or even anger, it is a necessary pain that one has to go through, and in the best cases, it helps us live our best life whether that is in the pursuit of greater knowledge or to do the most good to others.
